Seemingly every day some large national company has its critical information hacked. Confidential corporate financial information, sensitive customer data, R&D and intellectual property are being stolen or compromised at a record pace, sometimes irreparably damaging brand reputations. What’s even more frightening is that cybercrime doesn’t just hit big companies. In fact, the majority of attacks are on small to medium-sized companies. Are you prepared and protected?

“It can’t happen to me” probably isn’t the best cyber liability insurance strategy.

40% Increase in cyber breaches in 2016

2/3 of cyberattacks are on small and medium businesses

Nearly of cyberattacks are on small/medium businesses

55% of small businesses reported at least one data breach in the past year

1/2 of those had multiple breaches

AVERAGE COST OF A DATA BREACH:

$4m (large companies)

$84k–$148k (small companies)

CONSEQUENCES:

Big companies are typically better equipped to handle it; smaller ones are not, and the cost of notifying customers alone can do irreparable damage to your bottom line.

UPS Capital® Insurance Agency, Inc., a leader in the protection of goods and information in your supply chain, now brokers comprehensive cyber liability insurance* policies that can help you reduce the risk of cyber incidents, so you have one less thing to worry about. Policies provide broad coverage, and full-policy limits include both first- and third-party liability coverage. This is a big advantage over business owners insurance policies, which typically only offer third-party coverage. Unfortunately, 90% of claims are first-party liability. We protect you with:

FIRST-PARTY COVERAGE

• Public relations
• Forensics investigation
• Business interruption
• Paying cyber extortionist
• Breach notification mailings
• Call center support
• Credit monitoring
• Regulatory defense

THIRD-PARTY COVERAGE

• Law suits from affected individuals or others

* Coverage is not available in all jurisdictions, including Vermont, and for certain restricted industry classes. Contact a representative for more information.
